

ABOUT ME

I am a passionate MERN Stack Developer and Cybersecurity Enthusiast with a strong foundation in computer applications and secure web development. Currently pursuing a Master of Computer Applications (MCA), I specialize in building dynamic, scalable web applications using MongoDB, Express.js, React.js, and Node.js. Alongside my development expertise, I have practical experience in ethical hacking, network security, and secure system administration. My background in cybersecurity enhances my approach to building robust and secure web solutions. I am committed to continuous learning, staying up to date with modern technologies, and contributing effectively to innovative technical projects.
